How to reset sharp tv remote control

When you unscrew the circuit board and take it out, you can see that the circuit board is a thin piece of fiber glass that has thin copper "wires" etched onto its surface. Electronic parts are assembled on printed circuit boards because they are easy to mass produce and assemble. In the same way that it is relatively inexpensive to print ink onto a sheet of paper, it is inexpensive to "print" copper wires onto a sheet of fiber glass. It is also easy to have a machine drop the parts (the chips, transistors, etc.) onto the sheet of fiberglass and then solder them on to connect them to the copper wires. When you look at the board, you can see a set of contact points for the buttons. The buttons themselves are made of a thin rubbery sheet. For each button there is a black conductive disk. When the disk touches the contacts on the printed circuit board, it connects them and the chip can sense that connection. At the end of the circuit board there is an infrared LED, or Light Emitting Diode. You can think of an LED as a small light bulb. Many LEDs produce visible light, but a remote's LED produces infrared light that is invisible to the human eye. It is not invisible to all eyes, however. For example, if you have a camcorder it can see the infrared light. Point your remote at the camera and push a button. You will be able to see the infrared light flashing in the viewerfinder. The receptor in the TV is able to see infrared light as well. So the basic operation of the remote goes like this: You press a button. When you do that you complete a specific connection. The chip senses that connection and knows what button you pressed. It produces a morse-code-like signal specific to that button. The transistors amplify the signal and send them to the LED, which translates the signal into infrared light. The sensor in the TV can see the infrared light and "seeing" the signal reacts appropriately.

Links General/Technical: By Pamela Gardapee The DirecTV remote control must be programmed with the correct codes in the correct way, in order for it to work with the satellite receiver and any components that you want to control with the remote, including your Sharp TV. Although the process only takes a short time to complete, if you don't use the correct setup method, the remote will not accept the code. Turn the Sharp TV on using the power button on the TV. Read steps 2 through 5 carefully before beginning the setup. The codes for the Sharp TV are 10093, 10689, 10688, 10851 and 10818. Keep these codes handy when you are ready to start. Move the switch on the remote control to the "TV" position. The slider is at the top of the remote. The options on the slide are the icon for "DirecTV satellite receiver," "AV1," "AV2" and "TV." Press the "Select" and "Mute" buttons at the same time until the light under the TV option on the slider flashes green twice. Release the "Select" and "Mute" buttons. Enter one of the five-digit codes using the number keypad, starting with the first one, 10093. If you entered the code correctly, a green light will flash twice under TV option on the slider. Point the remote at the Sharp TV and press the power button. If the TV turns off and back on, you have entered the correct code. If the power button does not turn the TV off, follow the directions in step 6. Repeat steps 2 through 5. Replace the code in step 4 with the next code in step 1. Continue repeating steps 2 to 5 until one of the codes turns the TV off and on. Instructables is a community for people who like to make things.
