LEO + PISCES

7. Romantic.

There's a mutual respect for individual qualities, and if they could sit around all day being romantic that would be great, but in the real world, there are some fundamental problems to deal with on an ongoing basis. If things go wrong, Leo can dramatically sulk and brood while Pisces retreats or cries. Knowing the potential pit-falls, if both Leo and Pisces are reasonably mature and committed to work at their relationship, this can be a powerful union.

Worst Matches Taurus and Scorpio may have to put in a little extra work when it comes to a relationship with a Leo. Your Leo lover is very assured in his convictions, and you can tell by his demeanor that he knows he's the shit—absolutely no one can tell him otherwise. A Leo will take you to a private party, on a hot-air balloon ride, or at least to that buzzy cocktail bar that just opened and has a monthlong waiting list. He can sniff out dishonesty from a mile away, and nothing turns him off more than phoniness from others. Even when not in charge, his coworkers and even his bosses will turn to Leos for answers, thanks to his trustworthiness and reliability. He'll wine and dine you, buy you flowers, and take cute pics together, never shy to show off how great you are together. Leos' homes tend to be cozy, luxurious, and one of a kind...and their lounge collection is on point. Not to mention, Leos love to indulge, while Tauruses are super practical. Both Tauruses and Leos are stubborn, which can make compromising a challenge. He has so much vitality coursing through him and an inferno of ideas that he has to express, so it's rare for him not to be an artist or athlete of some sort. He lives life on his own terms, and confidently so, following no one's rules or timeline but his own. And because Leos are so chatty, there will likely be a lot of dirty talk. For their relationship to thrive, Leo should have more patience and Taurus should practice flexibility. But they can also be a lil self-absorbed and difficult to understand. Talk about a power couple! Virgo's realism can balance out Leo's ego, while Leo can teach practical Virgo to live a little! While they're not very similar, these two signs have a very complementary energy. On the other hand, Scorpios tend to be mysterious and keep a lower profile, whereas Leos love the spotlight. He's huge on trust and commitment and love, and if you can secure a relationship with him, he'll shower you with more affection than you know what to do with. Follow Jake on Instagram. Where is he from? Although he likes the steady affection from all his thirsty followers, he's a fixed sign, which means he takes commitment very seriously. These complex beings are notoriously the kings of the jungle and zodiac. Also, he can be a bit vain—his haircare routine might take longer than yours, and he has a very specific sense of style. They can def learn a lot from each other and will likely have a very balanced relationship. Kingly Leo is attracted to someone who's just as vibrant and unique as they are, so Aries is a wonderful match too. Again, you'll be rewarded with epically romantic gestures on his end, but if you never care for that kind of stuff anyway, it might not be worth the effort of dealing with his moods and need for validation. What does he do for a living? There's also a part of him that is a shit stirrer and lives for the drama, so if that sounds like a nightmare to you, approach this relationship carefully, or you might find yourself caught in some Love Island-level drama. Even when you're spending one-on-one time with him, the way he holds your hand and looks in your eyes before kissing you could win an Oscar! There's also a part of him that lives for the drama. He doesn't try to grab everyone's attention 24/7, but he always does anyway. These two might seem like a counterintuitive match at first—Leo has their fan base, Aquarius has a reputation for being something of a loner—but both are super smart, super creative, and passionate about doing good in the world. Their love of attention means they might have a bit of an exhibitionist streak, enjoy sex in public, have a group sex fantasy...or at least get a thrill out of exchanging nudes. They're both bold and brash, and their fire sign compatibility is out of this world! Plus, there is a sexual chemistry that seems to just get better and better with age. This lion loves to sprawl out on the couch and enjoys the comfort of his own environment. Getting him to see things from your perspective is work, and it can feel like it's his way or the highway, with his being a stubborn fixed sign and all. Which is why if you want to date someone low-key, a Leo is probs not for you. Sure, this can come off as cocky, but done right, it's also kind of hot.
